HONGKONG, JUNE 16TH, 1890.

THE Waterworks Bill, which comes on for second reading in the Legislative Council this afternoon, is not quite the same as the amended draft prepared by the Committee of the Sanitary Board. The Committee, it may be remembered, instead of recommending that the Board should be appointed the Water Authority and that the waterworks should be vested in that body, made the extraordinary suggestion that the following clause should be inserted in the Bill:—"The waterworks shall be vested in the Resident Engineer of the waterworks for the time being, hereinafter described as the Water Authority." A subsequent clause provided that "It shall be lawful for the Governor in Legislative Council to transfer the duties and functions of the Water Authority from the Resident Engineer of the waterworks to any person or persons or body corporate." Neither of these clauses are included in the Bill now before the Council, but in the interpretation clause 'Water Authority" is defined to mean "The Resident Engineer of the waterworks or such other person, persons, or body corporate as the Governor in Council may, from time to time, appoint to manage or supervise the waterworks or water supply of this Colony." It will be seen that although power is reserved to the Governor in Council to transfer the control of the waterworks to the Sanitary Board or other representative body there is no certainty that this will ever be done. The Sanitary Board ought to be constituted the Water Authority from the outset, and although that body has shown itself so weak-kneed in the matter we trust the unofficial members of the Council will not allow the provisions of the Bill on this point to pass without protest. We have already pointed out in previous articles that the powers conferred by the Bill on the Water Authority are much too great to be entrusted to any single individual. The effect of the Bill as it stands is to place the Colony entirely at the mercy of Mr. COOPER, the Resident Engineer, in regard to its water supply. In one minor matter, namely, the control of the staff, an amendment has been introduced, which is rather significant. The Committee of the Sanitary Board introduced a clause as follows:—"The Governor in Council shall appoint suitable officers to carry out the provisions of this Ordinance, such officers to be under the control of the Water Authority." To this it has been thought necessary to add the words, "subject, however, to the general authority of the Governor." Without this saving clause the officers would apparently have been removed from the general authority of the Governor, would have been responsible only to Mr. COOPER individually, and would have had no appeal from his decisions. In section 30 it is provided that when gathering grounds are required for the extension of the waterworks the Water Authority shall cause the limits to be marked out. In the Sanitary Board's draft Bill it was provided that the Government should do this. We have, therefore, an extension of the already contemplated great powers of the Water Authority, and Mr. COOPER individually will be entrusted with the right of interdicting building in particular localities. This is a power which it is very necessary should be reserved, but its exercise, we contend, should be entrusted to some representative Authority and not to any single person. The Governor in Council is to decide whether a gathering ground is required, but the determination of the limits of the gathering ground are left entirely to Mr. COOPER. It will be observed, too, that while the Governor is always to act in Council—"the Governor in Council" may do this or the other thing—Mr. COOPER is held to be sufficiently infallible, to act without any assistance or control whatsoever in most of the duties entrusted to him. As to the making of regulations an important change has been introduced. In the Sanitary Board's draft Bill it was provided that it should be lawful for Government to make regulations, or depute the Water Authority to make by-laws, but that the same should not have force or effect until approved by the Legislative Council and published in the Gazette. In the new Bill it is provided that the Water Authority may make regulations, but that they shall not have force or effect until they have been approved by the Governor in Council. It is further provided that they are to be laid before the Legislative Council, but apparently only for the information of that body, no power of disapproval being reserved. The Bill is one which should receive very careful consideration at the hands of the unofficial members of the Legislative Council. It is possible that the very great powers given to Mr. COOPER as the Water Authority might be exercised without friction and entirely for the good of the community; on the other hand it is possible that as much friction might result as has unfortunately been the case in the matter of drainage. This of course must remain a mere matter of speculation, but whatever confidence might be felt in Mr. COOPER, or even if Mr. CHADWICK himself were going to remain in the Colony as the Water Authority, our objections to the conferring of autocratic powers on individuals would remain the same. In matters of such purely municipal concern as waterworks and sanitation representative government ought to prevail, and public officers should be the servants and not the masters of the public. By the Waterworks Bill one man is selected and made practically absolute master, of the Colony in the matter of the water supply, which he is authorised, for a large number of reasons, to diminish, withhold, or suspend, stop, turn off, or divert, whenever he may think fit.

The O. & O. steamer Belgic, with the next American mail, left San Francisco on the 3rd inst. for Yokohama and Hongkong.

The Agent informs us that the Messageries Maritimes steamer Oxus, with the outward French mail, left Saigon at 11 a.m. yesterday for this port.

The export of rice and paddy from Saigon from the 1st January to the 25th May was 4,749,437 piculs, as against 2,644,697 piculs in the corresponding period of 1889.

The Agents (Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co.) inform us that the new Indo-China steamer Lienshing, from London, was to leave Singapore for this port yesterday at daylight.

The Agents (Messrs. Adamson, Bell & Co.) inform us that the C. P. steamer Abyssinia, with Canadian mails, arrived at Yokohama on Saturday, and left yesterday for Kobe, Nagasaki, and Hongkong.

On Saturday Messrs. Hughes and Eva sold by auction a piece of land at Kaumati, containing 4,500 square feet, together with the godown and buildings thereon. The lot was purchased by Toh Kee for $3,050.

A Chinese watchman, of the crew of the steamer Prosontis, whilst sitting on the rail of the steamer, about 8.50 on Friday evening, overbalanced himself and fell into the harbour. There being a strong current running, he was carried away and drowned.

We translate the following item from the Saigonnais:—On the night of the 26th May a policeman annoyed by dogs, discharged his revolver at them, in front of Government House. The two sentinels, alarmed by the report, ran away, and the chief of the post, who was making his rounds at the time, had to replace them and make a report. They will both be tried by court martial.

It is notified in Saturday's Government Gazette that His Excellency the Acting Governor, with the advice and consent of the Executive Council, has granted to the Rev. W. Jennings, Colonial Chaplain, four months' vacation leave on full salary and three months' leave of absence on half salary, from the 21st May. Consequent on Mr. Jennings' departure His Excellency has appointed the Rev. Harvey Edmund Taverner, M. A., to be Acting Colonial Chaplain.

The Japan Official Gazette publishes a telegram from the Legation, 30th, announcing the death of the Dowager Queen of Corea, which took place on the 4th inst. The Queen-Dowager, who was eighty-three years of age, had been suffering from severe illness for some time.

A telegram in the San Francisco papers dated Coburg, Ontario, May 15th, says:—"Jusc Kono, a young Japanese who received the degree of B. A. and a gold medal for general proficiency at the Victoria University to-day, is the first Asiatic scholar ever presented for laureation at the Canadian university."

On Saturday afternoon Mr. J. M. Armstrong offered for sale at public auction the house No. 33, Wyndham Street, subject to a mortgage for $6,000. The bidding advanced by hundreds to $700 (equivalent to $8,700) at which the property was bought in. It changed hands less than twelve months ago at $8,000. The premises are let at a rent of $55 a month.

It is a matter of tradition, says the Asahi Shimbun, that when there is to be a year of famine in Japan fruit grows upon the bamboo. This year bamboo trees are bearing fruit. This, when plucked, boiled, and made into gruel, is not at all unlike rice gruel in taste. When, also, it is made up into cakes it is not so very different from rice cakes. Sanada Hill and Ubuyu, in Osaka, boast plantations of bamboo bearing this fruit, and thither the poor flock and fight for spoil.

His Majesty the King of Siam can say a very neat thing, as witness a humorous remark His Majesty made when visiting a certain place of business at Singapore thus recorded in the Free Press:—On being shown a knife with many blades the intelligent assistant, zealous for the interest of his firm, named a right royal price for the article. Smiling as he turned the knife over in his hand, the King is reported to have said:—"Well, I don't think this knife would kill any body; but I am afraid its price would!" With which sharp thrust the King passed on.

The returns of the Collector of Stamp Revenue for the month of May last are published in Saturday's Gazette. The total revenue collected was $18,575 11 as compared with $22,396 91 in the corresponding month of 1889, showing a decrease of $3,821.80. This large falling off was mainly distributed among conveyance or assignments, which showed a decrease of $2,953.50, transfers of shares $1,866.6, and brokers' notes, $1,290.50. Against these decreases there was an increase in the revenue from adhesive stamps of $1,576.23 and of $511.58 from bills of exchange.

A Paris telegram in the American papers, dated 10th May, says:—"While Dahomey is to the fore there issues from the press a work on Tonkin to which Jules Ferry has contributed a long preface. 'I am proud,' declares the ex-Premier, 'of the title of Tonkinois, with which my enemies and idiots think to insult me.' M. Ferry then explains that the Tonkin expedition cost only 33,480,000 francs, and not a milliard, as is generally stated, and that the loss of French blood has been grossly exaggerated. The conclusion to which he comes is that the French occupation must be maintained at any price. All the great powers of Europe are colonising, and France must not be false to her obvious duty and interest."

An Indian contemporary notes the enormous scope for development of the tea-planting industry in Assam. More than a million acres of land considered suitable for tea have been taken up by planters, of which only 227,000 acres are as yet under cultivation, and of these again only 197,000 acres bear mature plants. At present Assam produces some 77 millions of pounds out of the 113 millions which form the estimated total of Indian tea production. The export of tea seed, which went principally to Ceylon, fell last year from 12,000 maunds to 1,200 maunds, which suggests that the Ceylon planters have gone almost as far as they propose to do for the present in substituting tea-growing for coffee, unless we assume that they are producing and using their own seed.

A portion of the new Peak Hotel being completed business was resumed there on Saturday. The number of rooms available is twenty-ten upstairs and ten down. When completed there will be in all fifty bed-rooms, with large dining-room, billiard-room, and the usual offices. Exteriorly the building promises to be of handsome appearance, and as to the internal arrangements it is needless to remark that with the genial Mr. Thomas in charge the comfort of the guests has been well provided for. At present, the dining room not being included in the completed portion, the rooms on the first floor, intended for bedrooms, are being temporarily used as refreshment rooms, the ten upstairs rooms being bedrooms. Messrs. Bird and Palmer are the architects.

We understand from a passenger who came up from Tonkin by the M. M. steamer Haiphong, which arrived here yesterday, that that vessel burnt only coal from the Hongay Mines on her passage up. The result was eminently satisfactory and occasioned some astonishment to the witnesses of the trial, inasmuch as the Hongay coal being used gave equal pressure and speed with a consumption not greater than Cardiff, and as compared with the Japan coal now in the market the consumption was 25 tons Hongay as against 35 tons Japanese. It was noticeable that whereas a large percentage of Japanese coal goes off in unconsumed matter in the shape of dense smoke the Hongay coal showed scarcely any smoke even when firing up, and a further economy is effected by its almost complete combustion, there being a total absence of slag and very little ash.

The San Francisco Call of the 16th ult. says:—On the 21st May the steamer China will leave this port for China, the first steamer to carry back to Hongkong the Chinese who have been caught smuggling themselves across the Mexican border into the United States. The number to be returned is twenty-one, and a telegram was received by Deputy Collector Jerome to-day from United States Marshal Gard of the Southern district, stating that he would arrive in this city at 9 o'clock this evening with the Chinese and asking for assistance. In compliance with his request, Mr. Jerome notified Surveyor Kilbourne to detail a sufficient number of men to detain the Chinese until such times as arrangements could be made with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for their return to Hongkong.

The Hakodate correspondent of the Japan Gazette writes:—I hear it is contemplated to build a small wooden dry dock up here, for vessels of from 500 to 700 tons, somewhere on the eastern side of the harbour, which is at present being filled in. After that, to pull down the Fort at the Northern part of the town, and with the material build on to a breakwater, from that point to the end of the North-spit, and within that to build a large stone dry dock, capable of taking in a vessel from a thousand to fifteen hundred tons. Should this really necessary and useful work be carried out in its entirety, it will be a great boon to Hakodate—as it will not only enable distressed ships to get docked and repaired without seeking a southern port, but will also enable ships to discharge and load during a strong northwester, which they are unable to do now.

The S. F. Bulletin of the 15th ult. writes editorially:—The report of Chinese Inspector Coon of San Diego, transmitted to the Senate yesterday, contains one excellent piece of news. He finds that the Mexicans are feeling the effect of Chinese competition in lowering wages, and have started an Anti-Chinese crusade. Once that feeling gets a good headway there will be a prospect of settling the Chinese question on our southern frontier. The Mexicans will not be as law-abiding in the matter as our people have been. Discontent there will mean violence, and, if not appeased, revolution. There are many regions and lines of industry in Mexico hardly adapted to white labour, but the native labour, with a little stimulus and discipline, is just fitted for it, and will hardly stand by and see it monopolized by Chinese. The peon is disposed to be lazy because he can afford to be. Under present loose conditions in Mexico he can easily get what little he wants. With a higher industrial development, which is sure to come with the advent of modern ideas and methods, he will have to work for a living. No more basking in the sun and eating the spontaneous fruits of the earth. When an anti-Chinese sentiment takes root it grows rapidly. If Mexico carries out her project of subsidising a line of vessels to bring coolies, there will soon be lively times in the sister republic. The South American States that experimented with Chinese immigration are heartily sick of it. Mexico will have a like experience. Possibly she may be induced to learn from the experience of others.

The Alta California says:—A small section of the Mikado's empire has been cut out of the islands and set down in Oakland. This refers to the Japanese Gardens, near Piedmont, which were recently opened to the public by A. J. Iyasu, the manager of the Japanese company, which has put considerable capital into the enterprise. It is said to be the first undertaking of the kind entered upon by native Japanese associated in a corporation, and they promise to display before foreign eyes some things never before seen outside of Japan. The leading spirit in the enterprise is U. Suzuki, one of the most prominent gardeners and nurserymen of Japan.

In Saturday's Gazette are published some instructions to Superintendents of Mercantile Marine Offices, together with an Order in Council, dated 19th August, 1889, revoking all Orders previously issued relating to Colonial certificates of competency and further amending and consolidating all the regulations now in force relating to their use, issue, delivery, cancellation and suspension. One of these instructions provides that upon first presentation of a Colonial certificate in the United Kingdom the Superintendent will stamp it with his office stamp and report its number, date, grade, owner's name, and the Colony, to the Registrar of Seamen. A Colonial certificate once stamped in the United Kingdom is not to be again stamped at the same or any other Mercantile Marine Office. Another paragraph sets forth that "as the Colonial certificates of competency referred to in the said Order in Council are to have the same force as the similar certificates granted by the Board of Trade, such a Colonial certificate must be accepted as occupying in every respect the place of one of the latter, and as entitling its bonâ fide holder to act in the capacity stated in it, or any inferior (but not a superior) capacity, in any British ship all over the world without the possession of a Board of Trade certificate." Certificates granted in Hongkong from and after the 1st January, 1884, for masters, mates, and engineers have the same force as if granted in England; whereas in the Straits only engineers' certificates so rank.

The Guayaquil correspondent of the Albany Journal writes as follows on the Chinese question in Ecuador:—Guayaquil is the commercial centre of the Republic of Ecuador—in fact the only place within its borders worth mentioning in connection with trade—its merchants carry considerable stock of goods, some claiming $500,000 worth or more, with an annual trade of double that amount. Few of them, however, are Ecuadorians, the heaviest importers being Chinese. The latter have driven so many native dealers to the wall and continue so persistently to extend their monopolies that the Legislature has lately passed a law prohibiting the further importation of Chinamen to Ecuador. The Celestial transplanted in this congenial soil does by no means confine himself to the company of his own countrymen and women, as in California and elsewhere; but blossoms out as a leader of society and delights to share his washtub, opium-pipe, and marital attentions with representatives of other nationalities. His several wives are generally low class Ecuadorians, in whose veins circulates a regular ollapodrida of Indian, Spanish, Negro and may be Anglo-Saxon blood, and whose leather-coloured skin is not a bad match for his own saffron-hued complexion; the main difference in "looks" being in the eyes—those of native women being very large and not set in on the bias, as seems to be the fashion of the Flowery Kingdom. The offspring of this polyglot parentage have not much to show in the way of beauty, but are hardly more prepossessing than that strange cross between Creeks and Negroes one sometimes encounters in the Indian Territory, who have kinky hair, high-cheek bones, reddish eyes and flat noses. The lower floors of the houses along the principal streets are used for shops, while the merchants and their families, of whatever nationality, live above them.

DUTY ON RICE IN FRANCE.

The Chamber of Deputies, after discussion, has voted the establishment of a duty on foreign rice.

"SHE-E" AT THE THEATRE ROYAL.

There was again a good house—considering the state of the temperature, an extraordinarily good house—on Saturday night at the Theatre Royal to witness the production of the original burlesque "She-e" by the Stanley Opera Company. The large audience was doubtless attracted by the fact that "She-e" was understood to be the piece of the Company's repertoire and also that it has now been recognised that burlesque is what the Company are out out for. And certainly from the opportunities they have given us of judging their performances in this line, as evidenced in "Lalla Rookh" and "She-e" if they will content themselves with giving us burlesque and not seek to attempt pieces in which they appear to less advantage, we shall have very small grounds for grumbling. Saturday night's performance was thoroughly amusing. The Company spread themselves for the occasion and as we have not hesitated to speak very plainly when we thought their performances were not up to the average it is with the greater pleasure that we can state that their last performance was an undoubted success. The management had evidently spared no pains or expense in mounting the piece and their efforts were loyally supported by the individual performers. The scenery was strikingly effective and reflected credit on the artist who carried out the work; the dresses were tasteful, and in this instance at any rate the programme was not in error in describing them as gorgeous, while the effects were correctly in unison with the piece in the smallest detail. With the large number of artistes that the company embraces they have the advantage over many Companies that visit us in being able to do justice to a piece of this description, where spectacular effect is the chief point aimed at. Mr. Fletcher, the stage manager, deserves credit for the manner in which he has drilled the forces at his command and praise must again be given to the efficient orchestra, so ably conducted by Mr. Trimnell, to whom not a little of the credit of the success which the piece obtained is due.

"She-e" is by the same author as "Lalla Rookh" and taken as a whole is well-written. The lines are certainly not as smart as in that burlesque, but are by no means devoid of humour. The piece, as its name conveys, purports to be a travesty of Rider Haggard's novel, which it follows so far as the names of the principals and some of the leading incidents are concerned. Beyond that it does not pretend to go. It is pre-eminently, to use an American term, a "live" piece. With the merest outline of plot, a number of comic situations are introduced, the latest London music hall melodies are freely sprinkled throughout the piece, and the stage is constantly crowded with groups of supers in pretty dresses who appear to good effect. The reason why they are there is not always apparent, but as the result is pleasing one does not stop to question the appropriateness of their presence. To pass away agreeably a few hours without making too great a strain on the attention, to please and amuse should be the aim of burlesque, and "She-e" fulfils these requirements admirably. So far as the plot is preserved it might be played backward and would be quite as intelligible as though performed in the orthodox manner. But in this instance the plot is decidedly "not the thing." With the temperature verging on 90 deg. the audience does not want a piece which requires close application to follow; to listen to comic songs with local allusions, to witness graceful dancing and amusing fooling is what an audience wants, and this we get and in no limited measure in "She-e." The piece is so written as to give scope both to the crowd or to the individual and the opportunities that offered were not allowed to slip. The performers almost without exception can be congratulated on their efforts. As Ayesha Miss Stanley throws more life into the part than any she has yet attempted. Miss Santley made a charming Ustane, acting with freshness and vigour and earning unstinted applause for her graceful dancing. Mr. Packard did not make much of Leo Vincey, but the fault perhaps was rather that of the part than the player. Mr. Pyne as Ludwig Holly had most of the "fat" and used it to advantage. His singing of a well-written song teeming with local allusions, entitled "Ask yourselves the question," was the hit of the evening. Mr. Fletcher played well as Umslopogaas and gained hearty applause for his grotesque dance in the second act, while the smaller parts were satisfactorily filled. Taken all round the performance certainly reflects great credit on all concerned.

"She-e" will be repeated to-night.

POLICE COURT.

14th June.

BEFORE MR. H. E. WODEHOUSE.

THE EMBEZZLEMENT BY A CLERK.

Gabriel Jorge, 23, clerk, was charged with embezzling the sum of about $1,000, the property of the Hongkong Marina, Limited, on the 9th instant.

Mr. Rodyk, who had previously appeared to prosecute, was not in attendance; Mr. Mossop (of Messrs. Dennys and Mossop) appeared on behalf of the defendant.

Mr. Mossop—I appear for the defendant, your Worship, and I am instructed to plead guilty to the sum of about $100 that have been misappropriated

His Worship—There is no evidence of that yet. At present the defendant is not guilty of anything.

Mr. Mossop—I plead guilty to the two or three sums of money that he has abstracted in which he has forged the initials of the bank clerk. I plead guilty to the last two items, that is the larceny, of or about $100.

His Worship—What he is charged with is that he has embezzled the sum of about $1,000. There has been no evidence yet of that.

Mr. Mossop—Yes, your Worship, but the amounts I plead guilty to have come out in evidence.

His Worship—Well, what are the amounts?

Mr. Mossop—The three sums are $31, $50, and $54, abstracted on the dates that have been given in the evidence.

His Worship—Yes, but on or about when? You have been instructed.

Mr. Mossop—Yes, but I cannot say what the dates are; you have them in your notes.

His Worship—You can consult with the prisoner.

Mr. Mossop, after speaking with the defendant, said—The two sums on the 9th June and the one sum on the 7th June, marked a, b, and c. I think your Worship, you have power to deal with the case summarily and I would ask you to do so. The prosecutor does not wish to press the case, and is willing to agree to accept the plea we have tendered. I have a particular reason in asking you to do so, first on account of the prisoner's youth and the sad blow it is to his family, and also that his mother is extremely ill, and is constantly taking fits, and her death is hourly expected. Also, your Worship, his father and family are so well connected that this has proved a very severe blow to them, and I would therefore ask your Worship to deal summarily with the case.

His Worship—I am very sorry to say I cannot deal with the case summarily.

The following evidence was then taken,

John A. Barretto recalled said—The prisoner has been in my employ since the beginning of August last. He was taken on probation first for a month or so. He stayed a month and gave satisfaction, but there was not much doing and so he left. I sent for him six weeks after. The month he worked for me at first was for special work. I did not employ a clerk for about six weeks after, and then I took him on again. Since then he has remained in my service until now. I pay money into the bank from time to time on behalf of the Marina. Whilst the prisoner has been in my employ I invariably sent him with the money to the bank. I have no recollection of sending any other person.

His Worship—Look at the slips in this book, marked a, b, c, &c.

Mr. Mossop—We admit a and b.

His Worship—Yes, but there are others.

The witness, continuing,—I sent him on each of those occasions, marked d, e, f, g, but not j. I am unable to speak positively of k, and l. The writing is partially mine and also the prisoner's. The amounts k and l might have been taken by another clerk, a Mr. Dumas, who is still in my employ. Of my own knowledge I have sent him to the bank. I have not looked through my accounts fully; only to a certain extent.

Cross-examined—The prisoner was a servant of mine and not of the Marina. I cannot swear positively that the prisoner took more than the sums marked a, b, and c. As far as I am concerned, being the prosecutor, I am willing to accept the plea of guilty for a, b, and c, and would not like to go further in the case.

J. M. Andrews, sub-accountant, Chartered Bank, recalled, said—I produce the ledger of the bank. Payments made on any day or on any particular account are entered on the same day and credited to the accounts. The ledger is written up by one of the clerks and is checked by one of us. I produce the Hongkong Marina account. There is no entry of $95 on 9th April last, although the paying-in book makes it appear that there was. There is an entry of $100 on 6th May as shown in the paying-in book, but the initials in the paying-in book with reference to that payment are a forgery of my initials. There are no entries of $85 on 12th May and $90 on 24th May, although according to the paying-in book there should be. The practice in regard to money paid in at the counter is that the shroff initials the bank part of the paying-in book and then sends the book to us, when we initial both parts and return the book. Slips are then handed to the ledger clerk and he retains them. The only way I can account for the forgery of the initials on the 6th May, when $100 appears to have actually been paid in, is that the money may have been brought when either I or Mr. Stewart was at tiffin and that somebody inserted the initials rather than bring the book to us. On the 24th March last $616 were paid in. The initials with reference to that are also a forgery, and the figure 2 in the total shown in the paying-in book ($626) appears to have been altered from 1. He may have received $626 and entered in the paying-in book $616; he might then have paid in $616 and altered the figure to $626 before showing the book to the secretary.

John A. Barretto, in answer to his Worship, said the figure 1 looked as if it had been altered to a 2.

His Worship, addressing Mr. Andrews—Could the bank slips give us any further information?

The witness—Most probably, but they would take some time to search for them.

His Worship—How long?

The witness—Two or three hours perhaps.

His Worship—Then I think you had better get them. I will remand the case.

Mr. Mossop—Would your Worship get the slips now because if you are going to commit the prisoner to the Supreme Court, I should like it to get in this sessions.

His Worship—I will adjourn the case till Monday and will do my best to close the evidence so that the case may come on at the forthcoming sessions.

THE AMERICAN MAIL.

The P. M. steamer China, with the American mail of the 21st ult., arrived here on Saturday morning. The appended telegrams are extracted from our San Francisco files:—

AN AMERICAN AMAZON.

NEW YORK, 16th May.

So far as is known the first exhibition of the "May style" of riding a horse in public was given in Central Park this afternoon. The rider was Miss Nettie Littell, young, pretty, dashing, and a Virginian of good birth. The start was made with a male escort at the Fifth-avenue entrance to the park, the young woman riding a spirited gelding. The drive covered ten miles. Miss Littell bestrode her mount with ease, rode cleverly and gracefully, with skill and strength, untiringly, and withal so delicately and unaffectedly that the few among the vast throng in the park who noticed the novelty of her riding admired her ladylike carriage. She wore a velvet-trimmed broadbrim, black felt hat, surmounted with a black ostrich feather. Her jacket was a cutaway, trimmed with braid a la militaire. Her waist was of white flannel, with a tie to match. The skirt is a heavy double-kilted, bifurcated one, walking length, so arranged as to be used for street wear unnoticed. She wears knickerbockers and high top boots, a costume light and comfortable for either riding or walking, and one with which it is impossible to get caught in the saddle.

In regard to the sidesaddle, Miss Littell says: "It is a cruelty to both the horse and the woman. It tires the animal, is liable to give spinal curvitare and other troubles to the woman, leads to one-sided development, and is certainly ungraceful and unsafe." The lady will be seen frequently hereafter riding astride as she does among her native Virginian hills.

INTERESTING DISCOVERY IN MEXICO.

CITY OF MEXICO, 16th May.

Leopold Batres, Inspector and Conservator of Archæological Monuments of the Republic, has received a letter giving an account of some most important and extensive ruins which have been discovered by the Rico expedition at Huastaca, Vera Cruz, and at Canyon de Papantlla, State of Vera Cruz; in a mountainous district, which appears never to have been explored except by Indians. The ruins are located in a mountain-locked country, densely covered with trees and undergrowth. The buildings discovered are from four to five stories in height, and show decided evidences of the Greek school of architecture, the cornices, windows and base indicating this. The bases bear relief figures, covering the sides of each edifice, which are frescoed in various colours and which have withstood the ravages of the elements and appear as bright as the day they were painted. The ruins cover a large extent of country and are considered by Senor Batres to be the most important discovery of the last decade, if not the century. Numerous idols are set up in the ancient city and slabs of marble covered with Aztec or Toltec hieroglyphics are set in the edifices.

Senor Batres is now making arrangements to visit the ruins for the purpose of bringing the inscribed slabs to the National Museum.

BRITISH POLITICS.

LONDON, 15th May.

In the Commons to-night the debate was resumed on the Licensing bill. Sir James Larkin, Mr. Gladstone, Sir William Harcourt, Secretary Matthews and Mr. Smith spoke. Mr. Gladstone said that the means proposed were utterly futile and extremely dangerous. The tide of public opinion against the liquor traffic was fast rising. Allusion had been made to remarks of his ten years ago in favour of compensation. Since then the law had been settled in a manner unfavourable to the doctrine of vested interests. He certainly never contemplated approving such a bill as this, which proposes the purchase of a number of public-houses on any terms the proprietors will accept. The bill might better be described as "A bill for the endowment of public houses." The bill was bad in principle and utterly unsupported by precedent.

Caine's motion to reject the bill was defeated and the bill thus passed second reading.

After the division Healy moved that the Speaker leave the chair, that the House might go into Committee of the Whole on the Irish Agricultural bill. After some debate this was done, and the first clause of the bill was read. Dilatory tactics created a deadlock for some time.

LONDON, 20th May.

Parnell made a speech to-day which was mainly devoted to showing the urgent necessity of placing every possible Irishman in Great Britain upon the voting register. He said that a general election might come at any moment.

Gladstone spoke to a large audience to-day at Lincoln on the political situation. He said that the hope of Ireland could not be expected to find realisation through the peers and privileged classes. Where it looked was to the generous heart and sympathy, sense of justice and love of liberty which ever characterized the British people. He was confident that the people would declare for Ireland's rights at the first opportunity they might have to make their voice heard.

The Earl of Wemyss to-day sounded the Government in the House of Lords of paternal legislation, which was destroying the fibre of the nation. Lord Salisbury, in reply, said there was nothing so socialistic as the mint and the Post-office, yet nothing is more justifiable. Too much importance is attached to the spectre of Socialism. Nobody could deny the existence of great evils from which arose Socialist agitation. "We are bound to do all we can to remedy these evils, even if we are called Socialists."

ENGLISH BANKERS ANXIOUSLY WATCHING THE FATE OF THE SILVER BILL.

LONDON, 14th May.

At the bankers' dinner at the Hotel Metropole to-night, Mr. Chaplin, the President of the Board of Agriculture and a member of the Cabinet, said, that owing to the action of the United States silver had begun to rise, but whether it will continue in the upward tendency or not depends upon the fate of the Silver Bill in Congress. "We will watch the progress of the bill with interest, and for my part and for my colleagues in the gold and silver commission, I hope it will become a law. With free coinage in the past the two metals were practically steady up to 1873, and I believe with free coinage now a like result will follow."

THE SPLIT BETWEEN GILBERT AND SULLIVAN.

LONDON, 15th May.

The split between Gilbert and Sullivan means, practically, the breaking up of the entire Savoy Company. Geraldine Ulmar, who came from America three years ago to take the position of prima donna at the Savoy, handed D'Oyly Carte her resignation to-night, to take effect on June 15th. Both Sir Arthur Sullivan and D'Oyly Carte are in a furious rage because Gilbert has formed a combination with Alfred Cellier, who wrote "Dorothy," and who, the British critics say, is the coming man in comic opera. Cellier's music is much lighter and more French than Sullivan's, and it is thought when he is working jointly with a librettist like Gilbert he will have a chance he has never had before to show what he can do. Gilbert has his new book all complete. He is meeting Cellier to-night to arrange for the production of a new comic opera in October, probably at the Lyric Theatre. Both Miss Ulmar and Marie Tempest are now mentioned as *prima donn cherished the hope that East Africa would become a fitting sphere for the investment of private capital.

LONDON, 12th May.

The Morning Post's Berlin correspondent says: "By to-day's speech in the Reichstag Von Caprivi passed in one bound to the first rank of European statesmen. The opinion universally expressed in the lobbies was that in comparison with his predecessor he has nothing whatever to fear. His speech was an intellectual treat of the first order. His whole bearing, and especially the strength revealed by his conciliatory manner towards his opponents, showed nobility of nature, high integrity, and clearness of purpose. The Emperor and Europe are to be congratulated."

All the Berlin correspondents agree that Caprivi's speech was a masterpiece. He combines soldierly bluntness with the suave adroitness of a diplomatist.

THE GERMAN MILITARY BILL.

BERLIN, 14th May.

During the debate in the Reichstag to-day on the Military bill the Minister of War explained the provisions of the measure. Moltke spoke in support of it. The European situation, he declared, was always growing more difficult, and it was imperative that Germany should have a strong military system. A strong Government alone would be able to maintain peace, and there is no one who does not hesitate to throw a match into the powder barrel. He held that all the powers were peacefully disposed, but that security can only be attained by Germany's own efforts. Of course the maintenance of the army on a war footing demands the expenditure of large amounts of money, but the point to be considered is this. If we economize in our war expenditures the most brilliant financial sensation we may be able to create will not insure the exclusion of our enemies from the fatherland.

Richter, leader of the Progressist Liberals, said that the increase of the duty in France was accompanied by a reduction in the time of service to two years. He favoured the same for the German army. He maintained that the Reichstag ought to form its own views and not form a decision based on the views of military officers.

General Du Vernois replied that the Government was preparing a bill to reorganize the army, and a change would be offered in the near future to discuss the subject of a shorter service. For the present the Government would make no concession.

Von Moltke in the course of his speech declared that the days of war waged by Cabinets are past. The elements that now threaten peace are found among the people, the cupidity of classes favoured by fortune at home and their occasional attempts to obtain a rapid improvement of their condition by forcible measures abroad. These dangerous elements are producing everywhere discontent, and may at any moment precipitate war, even against the will of the Government. For the Government is not strong enough to oppose the passion of the people and the endeavours of parties constitutes a permanent danger of war. When the war that for the past decade has hung like Damocles' sword over our heads at last breaks out its duration no one will be able to foresee. It might be a seven years' war or even a thirty years' war. Woe to him who sets the match."

LONDON, 14th May.

The Berlin correspondent of the Times says that Von Moltke's speech has assured the adoption of the Military bill.

BERLIN, 16th May.

In the debate on the Army bill to-day Lieberknecht declared the nation would soon be ruined by the heavy burden of the militarism. He blamed Bismarck's tendency towards war. Bismarck, he said, could have prevented the last Russo-Turkish war. Instead, he supported in every way Russia's aggression. Kardorff and Boemel replied, defending Bismarck. Kardorff said the burden of taxation was exaggerated. It was balanced by twenty years' prosperity obtained through success in war.

Chancellor Caprivi argued for the bill, and said the bequest he received from Bismarck was so clearly part of it that the Government would not alter it in any way.

At a banquet at Konigsburg the Emperor made a speech, in which it said that whoever attempted to attack the security of the country would find him a man of iron who could enforce peace.

LONDON, 17th May.

The Standard's Berlin correspondent says France and Germany, in order to avoid frontier disputes, should have the frontier delimited and place boundary stones in conspicuous positions.

BERLIN, 20th May.

The Minister of War, General Vernois, in explaining the military situation before the Budget Committee of the Reichstag yesterday, made the important statement that the French army is now stronger than that of Germany by twenty-seven battalions.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

BERLIN, 17th May.

The Emperor's utterances at Konigsburg sufficed to irritate the Russian Government and dispel all delusions regarding the possibility of a renewal of the entente with Russia. The newspapers here minimized his reference to war in the speech of Wednesday, but yesterday his final utterance was leaving contained an allusion which it is impossible to misunderstand. "I shall not allow," said the Emperor, "my provinces here in the East to be touched. Those attacking them will find that my strength is that of a rock."

As Russia is the only possible frontier assailant of Eastern Prussia, his words, especially in view of their following his first aggressive declaration, are now interpreted here, as in St. Petersburg, as aimed against Russia. Within official circles here the Emperor's deliverance caused no surprise, in view of advices from Paris pointing to a close relation between the French and Russian foreign offices. Whatever may be the Czar's opinion of the valuare of a French alliance, the Czar's advisers cultivate it.

Another pregnant fact is Chancellor Caprivi's design to place one of the two new army corps on the Russian frontier. The Emperor did not without forethought say yesterday that if obliged to draw the sword those who trembled the existing peace would find German blows as heavy as they were twenty years ago. Both speeches contain a veiled but emphatic declaration of the solidity of the Dreibund and the vigilance of its chiefs against a common enemy.

PRINCE BISMARCK ON THE SITUATION.

PARIS, 18th May.

The Figaro to-day publishes nearly two columns of Bismarckian maxims communicated by one of Prince Bismarck's intimate friends who never before was intrusted with interpreting to the world the thoughts of the ex-Chancellor. The Figaro prints Prince Bismarck's utterances without changing a a word, and explains certain passages which might wound the susceptibilities of Parisian readers. The following are some of the more striking remarks of the ex-Chancellor:

"I have lived for the nation. It is now time that I should devote myself wholly to my family."

Speaking of the Emperor, he says:

"I pity this young man. He is like a young hound that barks at everybody, that smells everything, that touches everything, and that ends by causing complete disorder in the room in which he is, no matter how large it may be. I think he, the Emperor William, is a victim of current history, which he might have curbed by a reign of tranquillity and by allowing Germany to enjoy the advantages gained in 1870. If a stone is moved all the other stones of the edifice will fall, and a disintegration will ensue that nothing can check. I am capable of neither astonishment nor scorn. Those are the sentiments of youth."

Talking to his physician he said:—"I am also a great physician; I am a physician of state. Before 1870 the nation suffered from diseases of childhood, but the war cured it. Germany was then enabled to profit by her victories, that brought with them national unity. Now another war, even a second Sedan, would not help the matter for Germany. The country is now become of age. I have done all I could to prevent the nation from committing excesses; I have tried to aid the rapid march of the people's destiny. I believe that I succeeded for twenty years. None but God and myself know how I have worked and what I have endured.

"This young Emperor, with his impatience, is a terrible shaker of columns. Alas! for the greatness of Germany is necessary for the tranquillity of Europe. When I told the Reichstag this the French shrugged their shoulders and called it presumption. Nevertheless there was no national vanity in what I said. France, instead of nourishing an unwholesome sentimentality about the loss of the provinces that we won in the last war, instead of gazing at her frontier with the nearsightedness of persons who see only the interests of the coming twenty-four hours, should raise her eyes and look further for an enemy of Europe.

"The hereditary enemy in the true sense of the word is in the East. It is Russia. Suppose there should be a war in which France should crush Germany. Russia would at once put herself in motion to crush France. This is the law of history.

"Emperor William is fond of history. He wishes to make history, but he does not know nor understand the spirit of the great laws of centuries. Germany is at the present moment undergoing a crisis that the first William might have mitigated or checked, but which he has prepared and accelerated. There is no absolute cure for a nation any more than there is for a human body. The principle of destruction is in all that exists. Only one thing can be done—delay the work of destruction.

"Germany needs tranquillity at home and abroad. The Emperor wants too much at once. He lights too many fires to warm those who are cold. He will be unable to stop the conflagration. The flames will increase and destroy what he wishes to preserve. He has plenty of strength to begin with, but he walks too fast. He will lose breath on the way that he thinks he has marked out. He believes he can remove a few rotten stones from the wall of the stable he wishes to repair, but the foundations are not sufficiently united and cemented to stand such repairs. He forgets that he himself is one of the stones of the old wall.

"The future? I don't know what it will be. When once a ball is fired it follows its course, and so do events move on, and nothing can stop them. The Emperor is not influenced by any one. He is the result of a current that sweeps him along. There is no personal vanity in what he does. The Emperor is neither foolish nor wicked. He means for the best, but he possesses a certain superficial, volatile spirit which will cost the country dear in the future."

PARIS, 19th May.

Talking with a correspondent of the Novoe Vremaya of St. Petersburg, the ex-Chancellor declared that Austria was not so near decay as people imagined. Germany needs Austria for the same reason that Russia needs France. War between Germany and Russia would be a great mistake, but was for many reasons almost impossible. The labour conference was a blow in the air. The discontent of capitalists was much more dangerous than the discontent of workmen.

THE FRENCH IN AFRICA.

PARIS, 20th May.

The details of the recent victory in Senegal have reached here. The hero of the occasion was Lieutenant-Colonel Archinard, commander of the expeditionary forces in the French Soudan. The Colonel captured the sacred city of Segou Sikoro, on the upper Niger, one of the capitals of King Ahmadou, on April 6th, and immediately afterwards established it as a base of operations, at the same time taking advantage of the revolt of part was against the King to secure allies. Advancing from Segou, he marched towards Nioro, the second capital of Ahmadou, which lies almost directly north of the French station of Bafoulabe in Upper Senegal. The King to cover his capital intrenched himself at the village of Ouesbougou, midway between Segou and Nioro. Here his army, numbering 1,500 men, was attacked by Colonel Archinard on April 25th. The Colonel routed the King's forces and took possession of the village.

The fight was a bloody one, and Ahmadou's army was utterly destroyed. In the route the King's forces were cut to pieces by native allies of the French, who showed no quarter to the fugitives. The French troops included 400 white infantry and marines and some hundreds of native allies. The allied sharpshooters lost only fifteen killed, while the wounded numbered seventy-two. When the dispatches left Senegal it was reported that Colonel Archinard intended to occupy Nioro and attempt to regain the French posts in Senegal on the route to Kouniakry.

THE PRINCE OF MONTENEGRO AND THE CZAR.

NEW YORK, 19th May.

Edmund Yates cables to the Tribune from London as follows: Prince Nicholas of Montenegro, who was eulogised by the Czar last year as the only true friend of Russia, has fallen into disgrace at St. Petersburg, and now it is extremely probable that the projected marriage between his daughter, the Princess Helene, and the Czarvich will not take place. Prince Nicholas has been so incensed at as to abuse the Czar and Government because they thwarted his plan of becoming King of Servia, and has manifested resentment in other ways, thereby seriously offending the Emperor and Dowers, who never either liked or trusted Prince Nicholas. People about the Russian court are now beginning to imagine what has become of the sum of $150,000, or thereabouts, which was contributed in St. Petersburg for the relief of the Montenegrins during the recent famine. The sufferers are reported to have received neither money nor provisions purchased with it, while by a curious coincidence Prince Nicholas has lately been enlarging his palace, and just now is building himself a splendid villa among the mountains. He got rid of several thousands of his starving subjects by the easy method of packing them off to Servia.

PARTIAL DESTRUCTION OF A SIBERIAN CITY.

ST. PETERSBURG, 16th May.

The city of Tomsk, in Siberia, has been almost destroyed by flood and fire. Many lives were lost. The city of Tomsk is the capital of a government of that name in West Siberia and is situated on the Tom River. It is mostly built of wood, but has substantial public buildings, comprising a cathedral, tribunals, treasury, fur magazines, barracks, hospitals, and an orphan asylum. It is the residence of a bishop, a civil Governor, and of the Superintendent of the Altai mines, and carries on a brisk trade in cattle and furs. Its population is 25,610.

ST. PETERSBURG, 17th May.

Later accounts of the Tomsk fire say a cyclone attended the fire, and a heavy snow-storm immediately followed. The cathedral fell on the hospital inmates. The latter were crushed, and then roasted. The garrison brutally refused to give assistance. The list of victims is very large.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

PARIS, 18th May.

Messrs. Bartholdi and Eiffel, after careful calculation, have decided that the celebrated wonder of the world, the Colossus of Rhodes, as described by ancient historians, could not possibly have existed, for technical reasons. Eiffel worked the problem out thoroughly with Bartholdi, and proved as conclusively as modern science can go that the legend of the Colossus is as mythical as those of Hercules or any other of the sun gods of old.

ROME, 18th May.

In the Deputies to-day Premier Crispi stated that the policy of the Dreibund remained unchanged. It was a policy of peace, and menaced no one, being solely of a defensive character. In referring to the African estimates, Crispi said he was confident there would soon be formed an Italian East African Company. He said that the reports of misery among workingmen were greatly exaggerated.

LONDON, 14th May.

The Unionist dinner last night at the Crystal Palace, the occasion for which was Lord Hartington's return from his trip to the South for his health, witnessed an innovation in political banquets, inasmuch as the ladies, instead of being relegated to the spectators' gallery, were placed as guests equally with the men at the tables. Mrs. Chamberlain was seated next to Lord Hartington, the special guest of the evening, and the Duchess of St. Albans was placed by the side of Mr. Chamberlain, who presided.

LONDON, 16th May.

The American swimmer Davis Dalton swam on his back from Putney to London bridge today. He performed the feat with all his clothes on, wearing a high silk hat, and with his hands clasped behind him and using neither his legs nor arms. He was almost drowned several times through his inability to steer himself and once remained stationary for several minutes. Nevertheless, he did the distance in eight hours.

Miss Raffovitch, who will be married to Mr. O'Brien, is receiving instructions in the Catholic faith from Cardinal Manning himself. The Cardinal also announces his intention of confirming her on her reception into the church, and has expressed to Mr. O'Brien his great satisfaction at having secured her as an accession to the church.

O'Shea's lawyers intend to move in a few days that the divorce suit be set down for trial forthwith. If this is done the case may be disposed of before the end of July. There are many conflicting stories as to Parnell's defence. One prevalent report, which, however, lacks absolutely reliable authority, is that Parnell will not defend the case at all. The upshot of the affair will be that he may marry Mrs. O'Shea. Such a course would certainly lessen the political capital his enemies hope to make out of the suit. Lean state that, whatever way the case goes, Parnell will remain the leader of the Irish party.

Quite a lively scene took place at the Trocadero Music Hall last evening when the bailiff sought to collect the amount of a judgment against Bessie Bellwood. On Miss Bellwood's arrival at the Trocadero in a hansom cab, accompanied by the Duke of Manchester, who was a party to the action, a lawyer's clerk and two bailiffs pounced on the pair. Manchester jumped out of the far side of the vehicle, and having a good start, ran frantically down the street, jumped into another cab and disappeared. Miss Bellwood was taken into the private office of the manager. The ushers and stage hands at once assembled and threw the bailiffs bodily into the street. The latter proceeded to the police station, and, having obtained a posse, returned and arrested the singer. The money was subsequently paid and she was released. The manager of the theatre and his assistants will be arraigned at the Marlborough police station for assaulting the officers.

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY,

WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterised Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—

Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 160,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect this work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
